

Federated States of Micronesia

Continent: Australia

Languages Spoken: English, Chuukese, Pohnpeian, Kosraean, Yapese

Population: 115,000

Currency: United States Dollar (USD)

Area: 702

Main Landmarks:

- {'name': 'Nan Madol', 'writeup': 'An ancient city built on a lagoon, known for its unique megalithic architecture and often called the 'Venice of the Pacific.'}
- {'name': 'Yap Stone Money Banks', 'writeup': 'Large stone disks used as traditional currency, symbolizing wealth and social status on the island of Yap.'}
- {'name': 'Pohnpei Island', 'writeup': 'Home to lush rainforests, waterfalls, and the mysterious ruins of Nan Madol.'}

Head of State / Government:

President Wesley Simina

Main Cultural Events:

- {'name': 'Yap Day', 'writeup': 'An annual celebration featuring traditional dances, canoe races, and cultural displays to honor Yapese heritage.'}
- {'name': 'Pohnpei Cultural Festival', 'writeup': 'A festival showcasing traditional music, dance, and crafts from Pohnpei and surrounding islands.'}

Food & Cuisine:

Micronesian cuisine features seafood, taro, breadfruit, and coconut, often prepared in traditional methods like steaming in earth ovens.

Brief History:

The Federated States of Micronesia were settled thousands of years ago by Austronesian peoples. It was colonized by Spain, Germany, and Japan before becoming a U.S. Trust Territory after World War II. It gained independence in 1986 under a Compact of Free Association with the United States.

Important People:

- Wesley Simina - Current President
- Tosiwo Nakayama - First President of FSM
- Emelihter Kihleng - Poet and academic

Current Conflicts:

The Federated States of Micronesia is currently peaceful with no active conflicts.

Youtube Links:

- Discovering the Federated States of Micronesia

- Nan Madol: The Lost City of Micronesia
- Cultural Traditions of Yap Island
- Travel Guide to Pohnpei, Micronesia
- Micronesian Cuisine and Island Life